

A photograph of the Loy Yang power station, featuring several large cooling towers and tall smokestacks emitting plumes of white steam. The station is situated behind a road with traffic signs and some trees.

If Australia's dirtiest power station,
Loy Yang, should be shut down

A photograph of an airport tarmac. In the foreground, the tail of a Virgin Australia plane is visible. In the background, a Qantas plane is parked on the tarmac. Hills are visible in the distance under a clear blue sky.

...why shouldn't something even more warming?

In 2018/19 global warming from Qantas
and Virgin Australia domestic flights exceeded that from AGL's Loy Yang.

